The Division of Continuing Studies at the University of Victoria invites applications for an Instructor for select Japanese-language conversation courses this fall. These classes are part of our World Languages offerings, which are non-credit language courses that focus on real-world communication for working professionals and members of the community.

Currently, we are seeking an Instructor for the daytime and/or evening sections of Japanese: Introductory, Japanese: Beginner and Japanese: Intermediate for the September 2019 term. Each of these sections is offered two hours a week over ten weeks in a face-to-face format.

This posting requires native-level fluency in Japanese and previous language teaching experience in a classroom setting for adult learners. We are especially interested in candidates with experience teaching Japanese in the adult education post-secondary context. The ideal candidate will have a bachelor’s degree or equivalent in the field of Japanese language or literature, or in the field of education (or an equivalent combination of an undergraduate degree in another area plus related experience).

Preferred requirements

Applicants must be located within Canada to deliver this course and should have:

- Native-level fluency in Japanese (CEFR C2 or equivalent)
- a bachelor’s degree in Japanese language, literature or in the field of education
- a minimum of three years’ language teaching experience, ideally in the field of adult continuing education

Please submit a résumé with a letter of intent and two references by September 6th, 2019 to:

Philippe Provencher, Program Coordinator
