National recognition

CACE is a nationally-recognized credential that sets you apart as a workplace learning professional of choice.

- Gain knowledge and practical skills-building in the areas of program and course development, facilitation and instructional design in a collaborative environment that fosters innovation, creativity and strong peer connections.
- Learn how to apply the latest in instructional techniques and online learning tools to reach your learners in more ways than ever before.

You're already knowledgeable and passionate about your area of expertise; CACE will give you the skills and confidence to be able to more effectively share that knowledge with others.

Building an effective workplace learning program means having all the right pieces in place

As professional development and lifelong learning become increasingly important in our fast-changing world, there is a growing demand for qualified adult educators and performance and learning professionals. Understanding how adults learn and designing curricula that will engage them in meaningful learner experiences can sometimes feel like a puzzle with many different pieces at play.

Solving the puzzle means fitting together topic knowledge, experience, facilitation tools and strategies, curricula design and pedagogy, in an environment that encourages collaboration and engagement.

For those who work in the field of learning and development, the Certificate in Adult and Continuing Education (CACE) is the puzzle piece that brings it all together.
